Personality Pathology Grows Up
- Classification Issues & Treatment

DPSP is honoured to present one of the world's leading capacities in classification & treatment related to developmental psychology and developmental psychopathology. Despite the fact that the diagnosis of personality disorder in youth is legitimized in psychiatric nomenclature (DSM 5 and the ICD-11) as well as national treatment guidelines, personality disorder is not routinely assessed for or treated in most child and mental health services.

This seminar will review the existing evidence base for BPD in adolescents, followed by a discussion and demonstration of evidence-based approaches to the assessment and treatment of BPD in adolescents, with a specific focus on the development of identity in adolescence and a mentalization-based approach to understanding and treating personality pathology.

Carla Sharp, PhD is Professor in the Clinical Psychology doctoral program at the University of Houston and Associate Dean for Faculty and Research. She is also the Director of the Adolescent Diagnosis Assessment Prevention and Treatment Center and the Developmental Psychopathology Lab at the University of Houston. Her work has significantly advanced the scientific understanding of the phenomenology, causes, correlates and treatment of personality pathology in youth. She is the recipient of the 2016 Mid-career award, North American Society for the Study of Personality Disorders and the 2018 Award for Achievement in the Field of Severe Personality Disorders from the Personality Disorders Institute and Borderline Personality Disorder Resource Center, New York. She is the current President of the International Society for the Study of Personality Disorders, Associate Editor for APA journal Personality Disorders: Theory, Research and Treatment, and a workgroup member for updating the American Psychiatric Association practice guidelines for BPD. She is the current President of the International Society for the Study of Personality Disorders (NASSPD) and Associate Editor for Personality Disorders: Theory, Research and Treatment. She has published over 290 peer reviewed publications (h-index 63), in addition to numerous chapters and books, including Handbook of Borderline Personality Disorder in Children and Adolescents (Springer, 2013). Her work has been funded by the NICHD, NIAAA, NIMH, the Brain and Behavior Research Foundation and other foundations
